The paradox of twins, relativity theory and the Big Bang, as well as the whole paradigm of the quantum - relativistic subconscious, according to Einstein himself, is designed to zombify the «human shallowness» with the «amputated head brain». For those who are «little interested in truly great goals», for whom science is only a means of existence, and they are ready to deify even their own delusion, if it feeds them.

The lack of character of individual theorists is the main source of evil. For our misfortune, this deficiency is all the more marked by criticism, which either gives the false as the true or the wretched truths deprives us of the great and important that would be very useful to us. There's nothing worse than stupidity. Goethe

The problem the intelligentsia faces in our country today is very serious. Politicians spread suspicion of scientists. These politicians are depriving the people who disobey them of work, thus condemning them to starvation. What should scientists do? Speaking openly, I know only one way - not to cooperate with them. Everyone who is summoned to the commission must prepare for prison and famine, in other words, to sacrifice their well-being for their country.

It is a shame to submit to such an inquisition. If people are prepared for this step, it will end successfully. If not, then the country's intellectuals deserve nothing but slavery and hunger. I believe that the ultimate duty of every physicist is to find those generic elementary laws from which, through pure deduction, one can get a general picture of the world. It is worth remembering, however, that the path to these laws is not logical, but only intuition based on the penetration into the essence of experience.

It seems to them that I look at the results of my life in quiet satisfaction. But in the vicinity everything looks very different. There is not a single concept in there that I am sure will remain intact, and I am not sure if I am on the right track at all?

Physicists think I'm an old fool, but I am convinced that in the future the development of physics will go in a different direction than before.

Even scientists from different countries act like they have brain amputations.

Dear descendants! If you have not become more just and peaceful, then the hell with you. This is a wish with great respect from someone called Albert Einstein».

Having repented and realized «the extraordinary seriousness of the sad consequences of the crisis in natural history for the fate of Earth's civilization...» Einstein was photographed with his tongue out. The scientist liked the photo very much, and he gave a copy to the presenter Howard Smith, and on the other hand he signed the card: «You will like this gesture because it is meant for all mankind».

To confirm Einstein's acceptance, consider, in particular, the thought experiment of the twin paradox, but with five twins.

So in the immobile frame at point A, there's one of the twins. Two twins pass simultaneously through this point A in two mutually opposite directions, moving at an equal constant speed commensurate with the speed of light. The moment the twins arrive at points B and C, equidistant from point A, they are driven towards them at the same constant speed, two more twins. Of course, they will arrive at the fixed reference point A simultaneously. According to the SRT, they must be younger than the twin remaining at point A. But then relative to the stationary systems of the twins arriving from point B and C, the twin remaining at point A was moving relative to their reference systems at a speed commensurate with the speed of light, and, therefore, should be younger than twins, arrived from points B and C. Comments are unnecessary.

At the same time, apologists of the quantum-relativistic subconsciousness state that «in the course of numerous experimental tests it was proved that time slows down precisely at a moving object».

On the principles of falsification and falsehood is based, both the paradigm of quantum - relativistic subconsciousness and all «numerous «irrefutable» confirmations and proofs of their «fairness»

The falsification and falsification of the quantum-relativistic subconscious paradigm have led us to become ignorant because we have closed forever from what is only science - the study of the moves that have gone on all the great minds of mankind to understand the truth. Since there is history, there are outstanding minds that have made humanity what it is, these heights of mental distributed throughout millennia of history». Leo Tolstoy
